INDIAN REBELLION IS GROWING

EXPECT SENATE WILL RATIFY ROBERTS FOR U. S. SUPREME COURT

Only Radical Dries Oppose Lawyer As New Justice

WASHINGTON, May 10.—No serious difficulty is anticipated in confirming Owen J. Roberts as an associate judge of the United States Supreme Court, despite the growling of the radical prohibitionists in the senate.

While there probably will be some votes cast against his confirmation, his nomination has not stirred up anything like the opposition that greeted the names of Charles Evans Hughes and John J. Parker. There was plenty of leadership in the Hughes and Parker fights, but a survey today failed to develop anyone anxious to assume direction of a fight against the Philadelphia.

Roberts' eminence as a lawyer and his successful conduct of the litigation arising out of the oil scandals, in which the government recovered all the oil reserves which Albert B. Fall leased away to his friends, has impressed even those in the senate who might logically be counted upon to oppose his elevation to the bench.

The opposition, such as it has been revealed in the short time his name has been before the senate, is confined almost entirely to the more radical dries, and the more extreme advocates of government regulation of all kinds of business. These elements fall far short of enough strength to prevent confirmation.

It takes a coalition of virtually all the Democrats and all the Republican insurgents to control the senate on a given issue, and in the case of Roberts nothing like such solidarity can be counted upon. The regular Republicans appear for him to a man, and he has a very considerable following among the insurgents and the Democrats.

The growling of the radical prohibitionists is due to a speech which Roberts delivered before a bankers' convention some years ago in which he was quoted in newspaper accounts as deploring the putting into the constitution such "police regulations" as the 18th amendment.

In that same speech, he was quoted as also deploring the tendency of the government to interview, either through legislative investigations or otherwise, in every kind of business. This latter phase of his speech did not endear him to the Progressive-Insurgents in congress, but his subsequent vigorous prose (Continued On Page Eight)

MUSICIANS OPPOSE "CANNED MUSIC"

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 10.—Ohio's organized musicians today were on record opposing "canned music." This opposition was registered in resolutions which were adopted at the closing session here Friday of the joint convention of the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs and the Ohio Music Teachers' Association.

Theaters were urged to use musicians in addition to mechanical reproductions. Separate conventions will be held next year, the club federation meeting in Cincinnati and the Teachers' Association in Cleveland.

CANNON ACCUSED OF MISCONDUCT

DALLAS, Texas, May 10.—In investigation of formal charges of misconduct filed against four bishops, including Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Virginia, will be opened here Monday by the Board of Episcopacy of the Methodist Episcopal Church, south.

This was learned today from a highly authoritative source connected with the quadrennial conference of the church in session here.

SCREEN STAR ILL

Ruth Chatterton, screen star, has been reported suffering from a severe cold at her home in Hollywood. Studio officials denied rumors that the actress had pneumonia.

PRESIDENT LEAVES FOR FISHING CAMP ON RAPIDAN RIVER

First Lady Remains At Home Because Of Injury To Back

WASHINGTON, May 10.—President Hoover left here very early this morning by motor for his second visit of the season to his fishing camp on the Rapidan River, Virginia. Because of her wrenched back, Mrs. Hoover remained behind, and the small party of fishing enthusiasts who accompanied the executive was strictly staff.

Justice Harlan F. Stone, of the Supreme Court, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hope, Dr. Herbert Work and Secretary Lawrence Richey and Captain Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, went along to try their luck at casting for brook trout.

The start from the White House was made about 7 o'clock so as to insure a couple of hours' fishing before lunch time.

Mr. Hoover is going to utilize his de luxe Blue Ridge camp quite extensively between now and the time congress adjourns. His real summer vacation will not begin until after the legislators have gone home, and may not start until early August.

In the late summer, however, the president has mapped out a most ambitious tour of the National parks—one which will carry him almost 8,000 miles before he gets back to the capital.

Glacier Park will be visited first, then Yellowstone and Estes Park. From the Colorado playgrounds the president will go to his home at Palo Alto, California, for a brief visit, and then, on the journey east, he will visit Yosemite Park and the Grand Canyon.

BANDITS GET CASH

BARNESVILLE, O., May 10.—Three young bandits were at large today after forcing three attendants at Thomas Armstrong's garage to lie on the floor and then stealing $1,500 in cash and taking papers that were worth $3,500 to the owner.

The holdup occurred Friday night. The trio escaped in an auto.

SIGN UP PLAYER

OSHING, New York, May 10.—Arthur L. Hale was found guilty of taking part in a laundry holdup, which netted $80, and must go to prison.

Just a small item in news but a big event today in Sing Sing prison, for Hale happens to be the crack catcher of the Sing Sing baseball nine. The team suffered a big loss last year when Hale and the star pitcher left. But a few months ago the pitcher signed a long term contract again and Hale's holdout collapse will complete the star prison battery.

QUEEN MARIE IS PEEVED

Piqued Because She Could Not Ride In First Car In Memorial Day Parade

BUCHAREST, May 10.—Piqued because she could not ride in the first car of Roumania's Memorial Day parade, the dowager Queen Marie departed ostentatiously for her villa at Baclo, on the Black Sea, today, leaving behind her reports of a rift in the royal household.

According to authoritative information, the dispute was between Queen Marie and Princess Helene, wife of the exiled Crown Prince Carol and mother of the boy King Michael.

Ever since King Michael was proclaimed sovereign,

Marie has ridden by his side in the leading car of the procession. It is understood Princess Helene asserted her rights and insisted the queen should ride in the second car.

Dissension has been rife in the royal household for some days, according to reliable reports. Queen Marie and her son, Prince Nicholas, have been working strongly for the return of Prince Carol. They have been opposed by some members of the regency council as well as by Princess Helene, who fears her son would be deprived of his kingship if the prince returned.

PRISON SYSTEM OF NATION IS FAILURE OFFICIAL CLAIMS

Blames Increase In Laws For Increase In Prisoners

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The nation's system in handling prisoners fails to transform them into good citizens again, Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisons, told the International Congress on Mental Hygiene and cited the prison riots and horrors of recent years.

Declaring that there were more criminals in the United States than in European countries, he said this was due to the attempts made during the past twenty-five years to raise standards of conduct by making acts criminal by law which never before had been considered wrong.

Warning a fight is prevailing between society and criminals, Bates said the policy to be adopted in the treatment of prisoners in the next few years will be of extreme importance to the future welfare of the country.

He said indirect responsibility for the prison riots and the Columbus, Ohio, prison catastrophe lay in crime commissions which called for increased punishment; legislatures which increased the penalties, and to the judges and parole boards who had lost a sense of proportion in dealing with sentences.

Prisons of the future should be a disciplinary school for those who can be reformed, a place for the permanent segregation of the incorrigible, and a laboratory for the study of crime, he said.

STUDENTS DRY BUT ASK SUNDAY MOVIES

OBERLIN, O., May 10.—"Enforce prohibition, but give us Sunday movies," is the cry of Oberlin College students, according to the first results of a poll today which has been conducted on the campus here.

Early returns from the poll show 295 votes for enforcement of the dry laws, 277 for modification, and thirty-nine for repeal.

The vote on Sunday movies stands at 401 in favor and 216 opposed.

MEARS TAKES OFF ACROSS COUNTRY

BURBANK, Cal., May 10.—With Charles Lajotte at the controls John Henry Mears, accompanied by his daughter, Elizabeth, hopped off from the United Airport here this morning at 5:55 a. m. (Pacific Standard Time) for New York.

The plane will make its first long stop at Kansas City, although shorter stops will be made enroute there for refueling and checking up on the motor.

FLYER CARRIES ON

TULSA, Okla., May 10.—Frank Goldsborough, 19, holder of the junior transcontinental flight record, took off from here shortly before 8 a. m. today on the third leg of his flight from Los Angeles to New York.

Goldsborough will next stop at St. Louis to replenish his fuel supply.

PATIENT ESCAPES

TOLEDO, O., May 10.—Search was being made today by police for William Peterson, 50, of Mt. Cory, who, while delirious, dazed a nurse in Robinwood Hospital, by hitting her with his fist, and then jumped out of a window.

INHERITS FORTUNE

A fortune of $7,000,000 has been inherited by J. W. Cook, above, 64-year-old newspaper vendor of Dayton, O., whose average weekly earnings have been $4.50. An uncle of Cook who died forty-four years ago left him the immense sum in a will which has just been settled.

REBEL TROOPS WIN VICTORY

LONDON, May 10.—The rebelious army of General Yen Shi-Shan, governor of Shansi province have "virtually annihilated" a picked division of President Chiang Kai-Shek's troops. It was reported in Pekin dispatches to the evening newspapers today.

Yen Shi-Shan claims to have routed the Nationalist forces after a terrific battle near Peking, in which 10,000 casualties occurred and 15,000 prisoners were taken.

BLAME JEALOUSY FOR TRIPLE STABBING

CLEVELAND, May 10.—Three youths were in Mt. Sinai Hospital here today with knife wounds inflicted by a jealous 16-year-old Don Juan, who objected to the attentions they were paying his girl, according to police.

The knife-wielder, police alleged, is Russell Perkins, 16. He was held for juvenile court.

The wounded youths are Nick Petrello, 16, who was critically wounded with a stab near the heart; Joseph Ross, 17, and Daniel Lombardo, 15.

DYNAMITE WRECKS ICE MAN'S TRUCK

CLEVELAND, May 10.—An explosion of dynamite completely wrecked the front end of a small truck parked at the side of the home of George Christian, ice dealer, here today. Police attribute the blast to an ice war.

Christian told authorities that he had been warned recently to raise his prices on ice.

The dynamite charge, police said, had apparently been packed under the hood of the truck.

ELYRIA, O., May 10.—After ten days of a "brideless honeymoon," Kenneth R. Moody, 35, Elyria mechanic, was to see his wife today for the first time since their marriage.

The bride, the former Miss Dessie Sutton, 23, was to be brought to court today by her father, William Sutton, under an order issued by Common Pleas Judge A. R. Webber, for a hearing on a habeas corpus action, which Moody hopes will return his wife to him.

GANDHI FOLLOWERS INFLAME POPULACE TO ATTACK BRITISH

Patel Urges Natives To Withhold Taxes; Raid Planned

LONDON, May 10.—All available troops in Sholapur, Bombay presidency, were rushed out in full force today following a report an unruly mob was marching on the police arsenal, according to dispatches to the evening newspapers.

The report proved to be without foundation. The city, however, remains in a state of extreme nervous tension. All mills are closed and business is at a standstill.

The entire port of Rangoon has been paralyzed by a strike of dock hands, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch. The strikers were led by Nationalist agitators, the dispatch said.

A sensation was caused throughout Poonia this morning, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Bombay declared, by the appearance of posters affixed to walls and buildings during the night calling upon the populace to collect arms and ammunition and fight for overthrow of British rule.

Written in flaming red ink, the posters were signed "commander of the Hindustani army."

In spite of general fears to the contrary, the Moslem religious holiday occurring today passed off peacefully, according to the evening newspaper. Extraordinary precautions had been taken at Lahore and other places to prevent communal rioting.

Mohammedans were forbidden to sacrifice cows or goats openly, while Hindus were forbidden to play music before Mohammedan mosques. Lahore was crowded with extra detachments of police to quell the slightest sign of violence, but their mere presence served to maintain order.

All religious processions in Bombay were banned in order to avoid possible clashes.

V. P. Patel, resigned head of the Indian legislative assembly, today urged Indians to refuse to pay taxes until Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, is released, according to dispatches which were received by London evening newspapers.

He also asked that a general boycott be placed on all government interests.

BOMBAY, May 10.—Followers of Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader opposing British rule in India, continued today to carry on Gandhi's plan of campaign despite his imprisonment by the British Indian government.

At Surat, where Gandhi was arrested a few days ago, Abbas Tyagi, who has taken over the leadership of Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign, announced that he would begin the march on Dharasana Monday and raid the government salt deposits there on Thursday.

The "passive" resistance policy of Gandhi was teetering toward the abyss of open revolt. The absence of the Nationalists' beloved leader removed a restraining influence that had controlled the more fiery of his followers and there was wide resentment among the Nationalist ranks over his martyrdom.

Word from London that the British government was ready to throw an army of more than 200,000 men into the Indian arena if occasion should warrant it apparently was accepted with bland indifference by the natives.

GIRL IS SUICIDE

UHRICHVILLE, O., May 10.—Coroner J. F. Lewis today had decided that suicide was the cause of the death of 17-year-old Clara Campbell, whose body was found in Stillwater Creek, near her home in Newport, two miles south of Uhrichsville, Friday.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bonaparte Campbell. The coroner was told that Miss Campbell disappeared from home last Wednesday after a quarrel with her father.

COUPLE FOUND DEAD IN HOME

Murder And Suicide Seen In Tragedy

RAVENNA, O., May 10.—The bullet-pierced bodies of Charles Slensing, 34, and his wife, Bessie, 36, were discovered lying dead in the bedroom of their home near here today by one of their three small children.

A pistol was found gripped in the hand of Slensing. The man had apparently murdered his wife and then turned the gun on himself, police said.

Mrs. Slensing was shot through the heart. Her husband was fatally wounded in the temple.

Slensing was believed to have committed the double tragedy in a frenzy of drunkenness, police said. The frightened and fearful children of the slain couple told police, authorities said, that their father "had been drinking" when he came home last night. They declared, however, that they did not hear the bullet shots that proved fatal to their parents.

WILL ATTEMPT NEW PARACHUTE RECORD

AKRON, O., May 10.—A new parachute drop record will be sought at Akron municipal airport here this afternoon by Earl B. Miller of Canton, O.

Miller is scheduled to go aloft at 2 p. m. in a Fairchild cabin plane. It will take approximately two hours for the plane to achieve the 20,000-foot altitude from which Miller hopes to make the jump it was said. The present world's commercial record is 18,400 feet.

MOB QUIETED AFTER OBTAINING BODY OF ACCUSED PRISONER

Negro Burned To Death When Court House Destroyed

SHERMAN, Texas, May 10.—Bloodshed and terrorism under mob rule ended here early today after a howling mob of 2,000 persons finally gained possession of the body of George Hughes, 41-year-old Negro charged with criminal assault, and burned it at the stake.

The mob gained its end after it had destroyed the Grayson County courthouse by fire and had battled state rangers, National Guardsmen and city patrolmen for eighteen hours.

A small two-story brick building, owned and occupied by Negroes, was also burned for added vengeance.

The Negro's body was tossed to the crowd shortly before midnight when it was removed from a vault in the charred ruins of the court house.

The Negro had perished several hours earlier when the courthouse was fired by the mob after authorities had placed him in the vault for safe keeping.

Forming a procession with the body on full display in a truck, the crowd immediately began to march to the Negro quarters of the city.

Reaching the center of the black belt, the mob formed in a semi-circle around a street corner and the body was hung to a limb of a tree in front of a Negro drug store. Kindling wood, boxes and papers soaked in gasoline were piled under the tree and set fire.

As the flames licked upward, the crowd continued its shouting and booing, and remained upon the scene until the burned body dropped to the street.

The building before which the pyre was built was ignited and completely destroyed.

The Negro district had been virtually abandoned by its residents. Authorities believed the general exodus of Negroes from the city prevented wider disorders.

Five persons, all white, were badly injured in the series of clashes between the mob and civil and military authorities. One youth was shot. Many others were believed to have suffered minor injuries.

The street clashes reached a climax two hours before the body of the Negro was recovered from the vault.

Rumors that the Negro had been spirited away and was not locked in the vault, precipitated a storming of the county jail by the mob.

State troopers on guard fired a volley of fifty shots over the heads of the crowd as it rushed forward. One Sherman youth fell with a bullet in his abdomen. Four guardsmen were injured before the attack was repulsed.

YOUTH SUSPECTED AS PROWLER SHOT

CLEVELAND, O., May 10.—An 18-year-old youth, who was believed to be "up to some mischief," but who says he was really only waiting for the milkman, was shot and seriously wounded here early today.

The youth is Otto Hyduck. He was shot by James Zenek, who told police that he fired because he thought the boy was a vandal and "up to some mischief." The neighborhood of the Zenek home was recently terrorized by a bombing, which was attributed to the garment workers' strike here.

Hyduck told police at St. Alexis' Hospital where he was taken with bullet wounds behind his left ear and in the left shoulder, that he had been making the rounds with a milkman for several mornings and that he was looking for the milkman when the shooting occurred.

WILL FIND SON DEAD

TOLEDO, O., May 10.—A mother who was expected to arrive here today from Scotland to find with her son on Mother's Day, will find that death paid a visit first. The son, Alex Fraser, 29, was drowned yesterday when he fell from the dredge New Jersey into Maumee Bay.

County Junior - Senior Banquet Enjoyed Here

THE problem of making a democracy a great problem, as the young folks come forth making their challenge to the world," said Mr. John L. Clifton, Columbus, state director of education, in an address to the juniors and seniors of Greene County high schools at the annual junior-senior banquet, Friday evening at the Masonic Temple.

"It takes people who think differently to make a great state or a democracy," he said.

Dr. Clifton used for an example of a challenge which helps make a democracy, the boards of education and what they are giving the students.

Each one likes to be individual, he said. He told a story how a country boy entered his office with the challenge that he had an idea and insisted upon having him hear and know his idea. The boy told him, that he was going out in search of a great teacher—a teacher who would go on the air. So the boy traveled the country for four years in search of the great teacher and in 1928 "The School of the Air" revealed the boy's idea and great teacher. "Now teachers and educational workers all over the world have heard of the country boy's idea and are enroute to this country to study the idea and find out what it means," said Dr. Clifton.

In closing Dr. Clifton stated, "A challenge is worth while in making a democracy, so why not build a highway to your door."

The gathering Friday evening, is believed to be the largest of its kind, to have ever been held in Greene County. There were approximately 450 guests present including juniors, seniors, faculty and board members.

During the three-course banquet which was served at long tables handsomely decorated in a color scheme of green and white, an orchestra composed of students of Spring Valley and Bowdoin High Schools, under the leadership of Miss Donna Sholey of Jamestown, played musical selections.

At the close of the banquet Prof. H. C. Aultman, superintendent of county schools, introduced Ivan St. John, Junior of Jamestown High School, who welcomed the seniors on behalf of the juniors.

Miss Wanda Lee Paterson of Delbrook High School gave the response for the seniors, thanking the juniors for their splendid program and entertainment. As a representative of the faculties, Miss Eleanor Lackey of Ross Twp., High School gave a short talk, wishing the seniors much success as they go out into the world. Mr. William C. Miller of Caesar Creek Twp., was introduced as a representative of the board of education and spoke briefly.

Following Dr. Clifton's address the guests enjoyed a theater party at the Bijou where "Song of Love" was shown.

The banquet was preceded by the singing of "America" and the invocation was given by Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College.

FIRST SPRING DANCE DRAWS LARGE CROWD

HOME HOSPITAL OPEN FOR INSPECTION MONDAY AFTERNOON

O. S. AND S. O. HOME HOSPITAL

The comparatively new $100,000 hospital at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, deemed one of the most modernly equipped institutions in Ohio, will be thrown open for public inspection between 1 and 4 o'clock Monday afternoon in connection with the national observance of Monday as "Hospital Day."

The present hospital is the third built at the Home since the institution was founded. The first was erected in 1888 and served during an epidemic of diphtheria which claimed the lives of forty children, who are buried in a small cemetery behind the chapel. It seemed commodious at the time although it was entirely under one roof, but eventually it proved inadequate.

As a result a second hospital was built embracing separate pavilions under the unit plan. Its erection was made possible through the good offices of a nationally known architect of Cleveland and included five separate buildings or units with a dwelling for the resident physician. It was crescent in shape.

A few years ago a military organization visited the Home and decided that the hospital then in use had served its purpose and that the time was opportune for construction of a more up to date hospital, keeping pace with increased population of the institution.

From this beginning evolved the present hospital. The Medical and Surgical Consulting Staff of the Home, comprising men prominent in the profession from all parts of Ohio enthusiastically endorsed the suggestion that a more modern hospital of newest design be built and willingly lent its influence in furthering the project. Various patriotic organizations joined in.

The state legislature was induced to appropriate $100,000 for the building and an additional $10,000 to purchase needed equipment.

The item of $10,000 for equipment has since proved to be inadequate, according to Dr. A. C. Messenger, resident physician, who discloses that the next legislature will be asked to appropriate $15,000 more.

The present hospital was occupied the latter part of October, 1929 and has proven so attractive that many individuals who are planning the erection of hospitals elsewhere have inspected it and patterned after many of its features.

It is a 100-bed hospital and contains, with adjoining buildings in the hospital group, cope with any emergency that may arise providing the population of the Home schools does not increase appreciably.

custody of their minor child, Jean, aged five months, and the question of amount of payment for support of the child was referred to Juvenile Court for determination.

SHE'S SOCIABLE LASSIE

Marie Gerard Of Radio Says There Are Too Many Charming Men In Studios

MARIE IS AFRAID TO MARRY—A NICER ONE MAY COME ALONG. SHE HAS ALWAYS WANTED TO BE A DRAMATIC ACTRESS.

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of sketches of the most prominent radio artists of the day. Others follow.)

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, May 10.—Marie Gerard is a sociable little lassie. She even went so far as to tell her right name. It is Marie O'pingger. She uses Gerard for professional purposes because it is more musical and certainly easier to spell.

Marie made her professional debut with her brother, Adolph O'pingger, also an air artist. He is a concert pianist. They began as a brother and sister team in 1923, when radio was a babe in arms. She still appears with him on Thursday afternoons as soloist, when he is one of the Ebony Twins. His partner is Charles Touchette.

Isn't Married
Auburn brownish hair, waved ever so slightly; mischievous gray-blue eyes, 5 feet 6 inches tall. She still tells her right name—25. But she looks considerably younger.

When asked if she had ever been married she smiled. It was a speculative smile—and she said blandly: "Nope! Funny thing about men, marriage and me, as Peggy Joyce would say. The trouble with being in radio is that there are so many charming, handsome artists around that it keeps a gal's head in sort of a whirl. She's almost afraid to marry anyone for fear a nicer one will come along. If you know what I mean."

The large eyes grew larger. "Oh, don't think I'm fickle. Mercy, no! But—honestly, aren't men nice? I mean nice men. And the most perfect gentlemen in the world are in radio. Don't you think so? We're just like one big family and we have so much fun. I do honestly believe there is safety in numbers. Meeting so many gorgeous men keeps you from getting especially romantic over just one. If you know what I mean."

Marie was born right in the Bronx of New York City. She does dramatics now and then on the air, too, and begged: "For goodness sakes, tell people I can speak lines! I've always wanted to be a dramatic actress and I want the world to know I can do something besides sing."

"Speaking Lines"
In radio now they call it "speaking lines," and everybody who can talk as well as sing is all around up about it—like a chorus girl who has carried a spear all her life and suddenly gets a chance to say a couple of words. Of course, the chorus girl gets an extra dollar a week if she can say, "Yes, Mi-lady." Or "So's your Aunt Minnie," without fainting from stage fright.

Marie has held a Juillard school fellowship for two years. This is a big honor. She also sings in a mixed quartet and does quite a bit of work with Helen Nugent.

Plays the piano, too. Soloist over several big hours.

Cheers His Twin

"Buck up, Jimmy," writes Thomas Bolger to his twin brother, who is in the Sing Sing death house, while their mother, Mrs. Margaret Bolger, watches. He is attempting to obtain aid for James, who, with two others, was convicted of slaying a Westbury, L. I., druggist during a hold-up.

John T. Harbison, Jr., has been awarded cognovit note judgments for $272.50 against R. H. Cook and for $360.50 against Harold L. McNutt in Common Pleas Court.

ROSS TWP. PIG CLUB WILL MEET MONDAY

The Ross Twp. Boys' 4-H Pig Club will meet at the O. A. Dobbins farm Monday evening, May 12 at 8:30 o'clock at which time the year's work will be outlined and some factors in selecting pigs for this project will be discussed. The work is divided into two parts, the Market Class and the Breeding Class. Pigs should be farrowed on or before March 1st. Members may have one or more pigs under each class.

Arthur B. Evans is leader of this club and all boys and their parents are urged to attend this meeting.

VERDICT UPHELD

A judgment for $46.20 and costs obtained by E. S. Keiter, R. R. No. 8, Dayton, against C. F. McMichael, R. R. No. 8, Dayton, in the court of R. E. Ferguson, Beaver Creek Twp. Justice of the peace, for damage to his automobile incurred in an auto collision last July 20 was sustained by a jury in Common Pleas Court Saturday. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for the full amount sought.

COMPETE IN FINALS

Ralph Bickling and John Custer, Xenia Central High School students, went to Bowling Green, O., Saturday to compete with contestants from all over Ohio at the State Normal School in the 1930 State High School Bookkeeping Contest. Bickling, a senior, and Custer, a junior, became eligible for the state finals by their showing in a recent district contest held here. A Cedarville High School student also accompanied them.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE PERPETUITY OF LOVE—And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.—1 Cor. 13:13.

THE ERIE CANAL

The reversal by the army board of engineers of its long maintained and consistent attitude of opposition to government development of the Erie canal project was astonishing enough when it first became known to the world, because it clashed directly with every expert opinion previously voiced, including the professional opinion of Herbert Hoover. But the testimony on the subject given by Brigadier-General Herbert Deakney, assistant chief of army engineers, before the senate commerce committee, is genuinely amazing.

Under cross-examination General Deakney appeared to be able to advance no substantial or tangible reason for the sudden change of the engineering attitude. He did offer the statement that any transfer of the New York canal to the federal government would require many years to consummate in case it should be undertaken, and that meanwhile traffic "might develop" which would make the operation of the waterway useful; but he did not undertake to assert positively that such would be the case; and altogether his defense of the position he was trying to back up was so weak it would have seemed funny if it had not been tragic.

The element of tragedy became especially pronounced when the general undertook to deal with queries regarding the bearing a purchase of the Erie canal by the national government would have on the St. Lawrence waterway project and was obliged to admit, though apparently without any joy, that the acquisition of the New York ditch would have a bad effect on the future of the greater enterprise. Nor was the atmosphere made limpid by the presence (so a dispatch says) of Representative Hull of Illinois, directly behind General Deakney, and the appearance of Representative Dempsey of New York, chairman of the house rivers and harbors committee, as "coach" to Senator Copeland, who admitted that he is against the St. Lawrence waterway and prophesied that it will not be built while the present generation lives.

We wonder whether General Deakney remembered that on March 26, Messrs. Dempsey and Hull announced they were going to try to override hostile findings by the army engineers on the New York barge canal, would force congress at this session to approve of the purchase of that canal as a substitute for the St. Lawrence waterway, and at the same time enact legislation authorizing permanent water diversion at Chicago; and how after these personages argued for two hours with the army engineers, who had reported unfavorably on their projects, he told them flatly that they were getting nowhere. Doesn't the general think he should explain what arguments have since been presented to him to make him change his attitude?

OUTSIDE THE SUBJECT

A good deal of unnecessary attention is being given in Washington to the question of Mr. Hoover's personal dryness and that of several members of his cabinet. While the campaign that put Mr. Hoover in the White House was still young, a statement was published that he had not touched intoxicating liquor since the prohibition amendment came into force, although previously he had not been a total abstainer. This statement, as far as we know, was never denied. The reference to the necessity for an investigation of the abuses growing out of prohibition enforcement, which he included in his speech of acceptance, made several thoroughly loyal Republican newspapers jump to the conclusion that Mr. Hoover, if he were elected president, would set on foot an official examination of all the pros and cons of national prohibition. The Wickersham commission was the answer to that.

Whether or not Mr. Hoover and some of the members of his cabinet are personally wet or dry in no wise affects their obligation to do their best to enforce the laws they find on the books and which they are sworn to administer. They appear to be thoroughly alive to that fact. Those who are trying to make wet or dry capital out of the personal attitude of the chief executive and his aides toward prohibition pay them the dubious compliment of inferring that they allow their appetites to influence the manner in which they make good their solemn promises to the nation.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

"OVER THIRTY-FIVE"

The middle aged look with pathetic interest at the experiment of the Baltimore Federation of Labor. President Broening of that organization plans an association of workers over 35 years of age and the adoption of a policy of not patronizing concerns which discriminate against employees due to age. While retaliation and revenge are not sound planks in any platform there is plenty to be said in sympathy with Broening's idea. The fact is that progress is being made in the direction in which the new association wants to go. More and more executives are realizing that in a great many cases added years mean increased rather than decreased efficiency. There is a power in the enthusiasm and tirelessness of youth but the big work of the world has been done mostly by men and women who were not young.

BILLY SUNDAY AGAIN

Billy Sunday has endurance. His most earnest detractors will admit that. He has been preaching in Philadelphia with all his old-time vigor. The fact that he has more physical vigor than anything else does not detract from his earnestness and his sincerity. Although Sunday has been standing on the curb all these years beating a drum while the thinkers of the world passed by, most of the procession hasn't yet got far past him. In a recent sermon he said, or shouted:

"I'm not an advocate of velvet speaking and I have no patience with the mealy-mouthed preacher who is too timid to deliver damnation upon sinners. Some of our church pillars would not be so noisy in politics and so quiet in religion if God Almighty owned their mouths."

Perhaps there's something in that, but what more preachers need is not a new pair of lungs to deliver damnation but a mind and a spirit to point mankind to the way of happiness and of peace.

MACHINES

Intelligent workmen don't fret about machines and machine production. Henry Ford speaks well when he says: "Strange as it may seem, the more machines in operation, the more men at work. There are more men working today by fifty percent than at any time in the history of the world, and the standard of workers has been raised to a much higher level."

The problem which calls for the concentrated attention of the best minds in civilization is the problem of keeping men at honest, productive effort without losing any of the tremendous advantages which have come to the masses of the population by reason of the machine production of this amazing industrial age.

CENTRAL PRESS
WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

Who founded the Smithsonian Institution?
The Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C., was established by statute in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smith, an Englishman, who bequeathed his fortune in 1826, to the United States to found an institution for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." From the income of the fund a building, known as the Smithsonian building, was erected on land given by the United States.

Naval Pigeons
Are carrier pigeons used in the navy?
There are approximately 700 carrier pigeons in the navy today, lofts being in operation at several points on the east and west coasts of the United States, and Panama and Honolulu.

Valley Forge
When did Washington break camp at Valley Forge, and where did the army go?
Washington broke camp at Valley Forge June 18, 1778, and took possession of Philadelphia.

The Planet X
How far from the earth is the new planet, and how large is it in comparison with the earth?
The new planet "X" is 41 astronomical units or 1,335,000 miles from the earth. It is tentatively believed to be about the same size as the earth.

Deep Water
What is the greatest depth of the ocean?
The deepest place in the ocean yet found is in the Mindanao deep, between the Philippines and Japan, where soundings of 35,410 feet have been reported.

Peaches
Did peaches originate in this country?
Peaches are derived from Persia, where they still grow in a native state, small, bitter, and with poisonous qualities.

Japanese Cherries
Do the Japanese cherry trees in Washington, D. C., bear fruit?
Plants specialists of the department of agriculture inform us that these trees bear cherries occasionally but they are virtually all seed and skin and not edible.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—Having spent three years covering the Supreme Court for the old New York Herald, our opinion of the average New York lawyer is considerably less than nothing. And here is one of the latest reasons:

Six men of law were recently called in to defend a man who in a fit of rage killed his boarding house mistress and her son. It seems the woman and the youth got the man down on the floor during an argument and stepped on a urinal which he was wearing on his neck.

The best six-count 'em—six lawyers could do for him was to advise a plea of guilty. He drew a sentence of 32 years.

If he had had only one lawyer, he might have got off with five years. Page Mr. Blackstone.

CONSTANT WIFE
"If we win, she's the manager. If we lose, I'm it."

It is Uncle Wilbert Robinson speaking, and he is referring to the good wife.

The handsome County Limerick spouse of the manager of the Brooklyn Baseball Club, has not only gone to 7,500 games since he married "Uncle Robby," but she has had baseball for breakfast, luncheon and dinner, for, lo, these many years.

"Robby" manages the team, but "Ma" manages him, and he says she's the second baseball guesser in the world.

"Sure, I've had a hard life, chuckles 'Ma.' But if we win the pennant this year, I imagine I can survive it."

THE PASSING OF SIR GALAHAD

NEW ERA OF NATIONAL CIVILIZATION FORESEEN FOR AMERICA BY SCIENTIST

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—From the period of confusion and unrest through which it has been passing since the World War ended, is America just about to emerge into a glorious new era of national civilization?

"Yes," confidently answers Austin H. Clark, of the scientific staff of the Smithsonian Institution.

Naturalist, biologist, originator of a brand new theory of the development of life from its primal protoplasm, oceanographer, world traveler and author of a small library on the most highly technical subjects, discussed in a third of a dozen different languages, Mr. Clark is as versatile a savant as the country has to offer.

He bases his prediction concerning America's future on strictly scientific reasoning.

But note—He does not forecast a glorious new international civilization; only a new American civilization.

"Compare our situation now," he suggests, "with the position in which the English found themselves at the end of approximately the same interval after the Napoleonic wars. The analogy is almost perfect. If history ever repeats itself, there is justification for the belief that America is on the eve of a repetition of England's experiences."

"The British isles, for practical purposes, were as distinctly separated from the actual scene of the Napoleonic conflicts as America was separated from the scene of the world struggle."

"The English were affected by Napoleon's campaigns, but did not directly suffer from them; precisely our own case more recently."

"Great wars bring great changes in the after lives of the peoples who fight them."

"The pre-war existence never returns."

"The Napoleonic wars altered England's life completely, but the camera tests and soon will be on the way to Hollywood and the big change."

Gladys stuck it out and got a break—hundreds of girls who come to Broadway each year are swallowed by the Dragon.

FROM LITTLE ACORNS
Gus Hill gave to musical comedy "Mutt and Jeff" and "Bringing Up Father," first of the comic strips dated. Now, at seventy, he is planning to take to the road again with a troupe of sixty players in motor buses, and scenery truck, and play under tents.

"If I could only get some of my old actors back who started with me at $50 a week and less, but are now getting $2,000 or $3,000 in the talkies or big musical shows," he sighed.

We were skeptical, so he opened a drawer, and hauled out several old salary lists, some of them thirty-five years old, and here is what he read off:

Montgomery and Stone, $35 weekly; Burt Wheeler, $45; Weber and Fields, $50; Sam Bernard, $40; Sophie Barnard, $40; Lottie Gilson, $30; Dave Marion, $35; Emma Carus, $35; Dan MacAvoy, $35; Billy Arlington, $40; Joe Welch, and the one and only Frank Bush, $40.

These were starting salaries for the most part, and a little later Hill engaged Fannie Brice, James Barton, Clark and McCullough, Gallagher and Shean, at $100 a week.

"Don't you think I could draw a full tent with those names?" asked Gus.

We told him we thought he could, and we would buy the first ticket.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Stuttering
"Dear Doctor: My nephew of 10 stutters badly, not every word, but often. His mother says he was left-handed and the family insisted on his using his right hand, and we have heard that this is the cause of the stuttering, so are afraid to change him back to using his left hand for fear of making the condition worse. What is your opinion?"

"MRS. M."
There is quite a bit of evidence accumulating that naturally left-handed children who are forced to use the right hand (especially for writing) may develop some speech defect, or perhaps squinting or other muscle twitching. Not all left-handed children do this—it may depend upon the degree of left-handedness—but enough are so afflicted to make it a rule that left-handed children be allowed to use the left hand as they wish.

Dr. Sam E. Orten believes that the attempt to make right-handed children of naturally left-handed ones is a dangerous proceeding, and is a fundamental physiological error.

I don't know whether your little nephew would be harmed or improved by having him now learn to use his left hand. I think it would be best for you to see a specialist in speech disorders. (We have an article on the subject which may help you some.)

Being left-handed should not be looked upon as abnormal, for it is not, even though 95 per cent of us use the right hand for acts requiring accuracy and attention, and only 5 per cent use the left.

Left-handedness is known to have existed in pre-historic times, for some of the prehistoric implements show that they were made for left-handed persons. The cause of left-handedness is not known. Numerous theories, such as a greater development of the right side of the brain, imitation, habits, etc., have been thought of. The most probable cause is heredity. Some authors believe that right-handedness and left-handedness are remnants of our primitive ancestors, who, in their fights with beasts and each other, used either the right or the left hand. They believe the reason that there are so many more right-handed persons than left is that among users of the right hand there were more who succeeded in the struggle for existence, because they were more successful in fights, for with the left hand they protected the heart!

"Dear Doctor: I would like to know if it is advisable to take setting-up exercises if one has an organic condition of the heart, caused by rheumatism?"

MRS. L.
Exercise is a part of the treatment of organic heart disease after the acute stage has passed, but it must be graduated exercises fitted to the patient's needs and must be supervised by a physician. Do not try to take any exercises on your own. Mrs. L.

own name. Today I am the proudest boy in the world. Only two weeks ago—the happiest day of my life—I located my daddy.

"I am nearing the completion of my commercial art studies, been at them six years, hard work but honest, and something that will help me give my dad more happiness, as he is in a similar profession. We are going to pitch in together."

"One year after dad left home mother died. Dad heard about it, and it was hard for him to bear up. I will have to admit it was in-laws that made all the trouble."

"My dad married again shortly after mother's death, a woman who loved him, took care of him, tried to make him happy and to find us, and give us a home, but was unsuccessful because he was told that we hated him and would not have anything to do with him."

"After I got my diploma I am going home. I always wanted to have my own home, something I never had to remember. I always knew that if we all considered it other person's feelings the world would be a better place to live in. To listen to one side of the story, and then jump at conclusions, causes many a heartache."

"Tell 'Red Head' not to run away; to stick by her parents. She should have gone through what I had to, then she would realize what it is to miss them, what it means to have to go through life without their advice and help. It's a hard struggle, and as I am older than she I write from experience, although I do not write this to hurt her feelings, only to give her a little friendly advice."

Your letter just oozed happiness. Art Student, and I hope so much you will find things just as you plan, and live very happily. Thank you so much for writing. I would like to know how you are getting on if you care to write again after you are settled in your new home.

Orange Sunshine Cake
Tea or Coffee

Quite a springlike menu isn't it? Make sunshine, angel's food and sponge cakes in the spring and summer when eggs are cheap.

Today's Recipes
Orange Sunshine Cake—One and one-fourth cups fine granulated sugar (sifted before measuring), one cup pastry or specially prepared cake flour (sifted before measuring, then four times afterward), three-fourths cup egg whites (5 to 7 eggs), three-fourths teaspoon cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup egg yolk, juice of one small orange or one-half large one (one-half teaspoonful of orange extract may be added if a stronger flavor is desired). Method—In a mixing bowl put the egg whites, cream of tartar and salt. Beat the mixture until stiff enough to hold egg whites up to peaks. Fold sugar into egg whites two tablespoons at a time. Then fold beaten egg yolks into this mixture. Through a sifter add the flour to the other ingredients and fold it into them. Then add orange juice. Turn into an ungreased tube cake pan. Bake at 325 degrees for one hour. When cake is removed from the oven invert until cold before removing cake from pan. Frost with orange icing.

Orange Icing—One egg white, one cup confectioner's sugar, one-fourth teaspoon almond extract, juice and pulp of one-half small orange. Method—Beat egg white until stiff. Add confectioner's sugar, then extract and orange juice. Mix thoroughly. Add more sugar, if necessary, to make it of right consistency to spread. This is especially delightful served at this season of the year, when the appetite demands a change from the heavier types of cake which are appropriate for the winter season.

Suggestions
Black and White Pepper
Of all the spices, none is more frequently used than pepper. Yet how many can tell which is the strongest in flavor, the black or the white? The two peppers are produced from the same berry, the only difference being that the white pepper has had the outer shells removed. As this process is an expensive one, white pepper sells for more than black. Contrary to general belief, however, the white pepper does not have a better flavor than black as far as quality is concerned, for the real strength of the pepper lies in the outer shells, which are found in the black pepper.

BULLYING THE BULLY
For at least once in his life the Despot, who had spent his life in scaring others to death, was frightened half out of his wits. Swift as a streak of greased lightning the Despot shot forward to a distance where he believed himself out of danger, then turned and looked curiously about him to find out who had spoken.

"Ho, ha! You'll never find me running away!" called Peter, delighted with the success of his trick. "Ho, ho, what a tale to tell—the Despot turns tail and flees!"

Despot was angry and his cruel eyes searched the water, at which Peter laughed the louder.

"Keep on looking where you will never find me!" cried he. "I am not a water creature."

"Then who are you?" shrieked the Despot.

"I am a Land monster!" chuckled Peter. "Come on out and meet me!"

"I'd come fast enough if I could!" retorted the Despot.

"That would suit me!" Peter grew saucy. "Do you know what would happen if you put a claw on land? I would seize you and take you home as my captive. How would you like that?"

"Not a bit!" shrieked the Despot, his voice shaking with fright. "Who are you and why do you threaten me? I have never done you any harm, have I?"

"No sir, I've kept out of your way!" replied the boy, determined to give the Despot a good lesson. "But you have attacked many of my friends, and I who harm my friends harms me."

How To Achieve Beauty
By GLAYS GLAD

Treating Knees and Elbows
Knees and elbows usually need special treatment after the winter months. And now is the time to get them in perfect condition for the summer, when short sleeves—or no sleeves—will characterize our dresses, and bathing suits will display our knees.

Perhaps your elbows have become dark, and the skin has hardened over them. I've seen many elbows that need the treatment I am going to advise.

To begin to eradicate these troubles, you should have at hand the old reliable lemon for bleaching. If you cut the lemon in half and use the fruit itself, not only will you get the juice with each application of the lemon on the knees and elbows, but a bit of the oil in the rind or the lemon. This oil will help to soften the skin on the troublesome areas.

When taking your bath every night, scrub the knees and elbows with a pure, bland soap, using a small flesh brush. After the bath, rub elbow and knees with the lemon. Let the juice remain on these areas for a few minutes. Then apply a little cold cream or a bit of olive oil.

With only a few such treatments you will see a remarkable improvement.

If your knees and elbows are thin and scrawny, massage them with warmed cocoa butter. This will help to fatten the tissues, and give to the knees and elbows a more softly rounded contour.

If your neck is a little discolored—for fur collars often darken the neck—use the lemon occasionally on it, always following, of course, with the cold cream or olive oil treatment.

Olive oil is a wonderful skin beautifier, and it is used as the base in almost all the liquid skin cleansers.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES
Brushing
Mrs. M. H. need not be unmanageable after washing. Brushing the hair after a shampoo makes it manageable.

Shampoo
Bee: When shampooing your hair, do not rub the cake of soap on the head. Specific information on shampooing is contained in my Beauty Culture booklet.

Buttermilk
G. H. F.: You may drink buttermilk, as it is not fattening. Even two quarts a day is not too much.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, and enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin for each, for printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED

There is a bare possibility, providing a majority of the ten competing teams are willing, that the first two weeks of play in the Xenia Softball League will be forgotten, the season's schedule revised and two leagues formed in place of the only league now in existence.

So many of the games which are being played at Cox Athletic Field are "joke" affairs, made uninteresting to spectators and players alike by the top-sided scores, that it is generally felt that something should be done about the situation before the season advances to a stage where any change would be impractical.

As only ten games have been played, fans believe that it is not too late to decide upon some plan whereby the games will be more evenly matched.

It is being suggested that the four teams generally admitted to be weak be placed in one league and the remaining six in a separate circuit, thus tending to bring about closer contests in each league.

The idea is worth considering and it is believed the Softball Commission will not stand in the way in the event the majority of the teams come out in favor of the plan.

In 1929 Dick Bass, Dayton, star Miami University pitcher, won the pride of the Buckeye Conference. This season he is having his troubles. Out of three starts he has won only one Buckeye victory and has taken sound beatings from Ohio Wesleyan and Cincinnati. During the first half of the season the only Buckeye team which fell before his pitching was Ohio Wesleyan.

In addition to the ineffectiveness being shown by Bass, Crockett, veteran infielder, has failed to hit consistently and to these two factors are attributed the fact Miami has been weaker than expected this season. In recent seasons Crockett has been one of the most feared batsmen in the conference but so far this year has been unable to live up to his reputation.

While on the subject of Buckeye Conference pitchers, the best record among conference hurlers so far this year is held by Kunz, giant Bearcat hurler, who has held Miami and Ohio Wesleyan each to one lone run. This big lad is a jack of at least two if not all trades for he played center for the Bearcat basketball team last winter. He makes a really fast ball with a big curve, which keeps his opponents guessing and stretching their backs to reach the elusive sphere.

Another lad who towers well above six feet and who is making a fine showing as a sophomore pitcher in the conference is James Vezie, Fredericktown, Pa. His first name is actually Melphard and as he gains experience he should become one of the best twirlers in the circuit. Vezie like Kunz has plenty of meat and muscle behind his throwing arm.

Sport Ritticisms
By BILL RITT

There is one way to beat the weatherman. Play the middle of the season now and the opening games in August.

As a rule it's so dry in August that even a camel, symbol that he is of Volsteadism, would vote for modification.

Another reform we might suggest is to have January the first come about August 15, because on New Year's eve you don't want to sleep and on any night in August you can't.

Byrd may have spent December at the south pole but he can't be our hero until he spends August in St. Louis. Or Cincinnati.

One consolation is that no matter how far the thermometer drops these spring days it is bound to be a couple of positions above the Yanks.

The paper says good crowds are watching the last-place Yankees play in New York. The only way to explain that is that in Manhattan they've become so used to pennants they think last place is something to be proud of.

And maybe it is. Those Red Sox this spring certainly looked unbeatable for the position.

MERCHANTS TO PLAY SPRINGFIELD TEAM

Xenia Merchants, local semi-pro baseball team, will face stiff opposition Sunday afternoon at Washington Park, meeting the undefeated Springfield Pirates in a game that should prove close and interesting. The Pirates have played four games to date this season, winning them all, while the local nine has won two straight games after dropping its season's opener. Ankeny, who pitched such a fine game for the Merchants last Sunday, will probably get the hurling assignment again.

Pupils Enjoy Annual Field Day Exercises

TWO THOUSAND TAKE PART IN MAY DAY PROGRAM ON FRIDAY

Seniors Take High School Events; Seventh Grade Wins Junior High Meet And McKinley Tops Grades; Elaborate Program Held

With about 100 parents of children and patrons of the school viewing the program from a vantage point in the football bleachers, approximately 2,000 pupils in the Xenia Public schools participated in the annual Field Day exercises, featured by athletic events and preceded by a special May Day program at Cox Athletic Field Friday afternoon.

Athletic contests for first, second and third grade pupils were held on the west side of the football field, the program for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades was conducted on the east half of the field and the combined junior-senior high program took place outside the playing field, except the running races which were held inside.

Seniors of Central High School were declared the winner of the high school athletic meet with a point total of seventeen. The juniors came second with six points while the sophomores and freshmen failed to place among the point-getters.

In the junior high events, Central seventh graders tallied eighteen points against nine for the eighth grade in the boys' contests while in the junior high girls events the seventh grade also outclassed the eighth grade entries, eleven to six.

Amassing a total of sixty-five points, McKinley grade school won the grade athletic events while Springfield ran second with fifty-eight. Orient Hill, with grades of only one to four instead of one to six, tallied ten points and Central High first grade surprised by scoring eight points.

Points were awarded on the basis of five points for first place, three for second and one for third position.

An interesting May Day program, featured by singing music by ten high school and junior orchestra, a doll dance, flag drill, folk dance, stunts, various other dances and songs, was held preliminary to the Field Day ceremonies.

The following program took place as soon as all the school pupils had assembled inside the football playing field shortly after 1 o'clock.

"America The Beautiful" sung by assembly, accompanied by High School Orchestra and Junior Orchestra, directed by William Hugh Miller; "Doll Dance," Central first grade; "Flag Drill," Orient Hill third and fourth, Miss Rosetta Fragar, Miss Clara McCalmont.

SWIM

BY FLOYD ZIMMERMAN

By FLOYD ZIMMERMAN
Written for the Central Press
LESSON ONE

The fundamental rule for swimming is to "have confidence." Now to write those two words is quite easy, and to read them and seem to take them to heart is simple. But for the novice, to really have confidence is another affair.

If you have this quality, swimming and diving can be learned without the aid of an instructor, although it is always wise to have an expert check your form and give you the fine points of the real art of swimming. For swimming is an art like all other athletic arts. Many otherwise self-reliant people have a deep fear of the water. There are many reasons for this: being thrown into the water when they were not accustomed to it or having witnessed a drowning. There are countless other reasons which should make one all the more eager to learn to swim rather than water shy. Anyone, however, fearful, can overcome this dread. Next—Learning to Submerge

COLORED BOXER WELTER CHAMP; THOMPSON BEATS JACK FIELDS

DETROIT, May 10.—Young Jack Thompson, Oakland, Calif., Negro, today became the world's welter-weight champion. He defeated Jackie Fields of Los Angeles here last night in fifteen rounds in one of the most unlooked for upsets in the history of fistiana.

Elmer (Slim) McFarland, the referee, walked over to Thompson and raised his arm without hesitation at the end of the bout, so clearly had the Negro shown he was Fields' master. The crowd of 15,000 persons approved the verdict.

Fields, who entered the ring confident of victory, cried like a child in his corner when his dark-skinned opponent was proclaimed the new champion. The bout was the first in which Fields had defended his title since he won it in July of last year from Joe Dundee on a foul.

The new wearer of the welter-weight laurels is the first colored boxer to win the crown since Joe Walcott was champion twenty-nine years ago.

SOFTBALL COMMISSION MEETS MONDAY TO DISCUSS LEAGUE

Persistent rumors that the Xenia Softball League will be re-organized and the ten competing teams divided into two different leagues received semi-official confirmation Saturday when it was disclosed that the Softball Commission of the Xenia Playground Association will hold a meeting Monday night to definitely decide the question one way or the other.

An attempt was made Friday night to obtain an expression of sentiment of the ten teams and an unofficial survey is said to have indicated that all of the teams, excepting one, endorsed the plan to revise the season's schedule, throw out all of the ten games already played and begin the season all over again with the six strongest teams placed in one league and the four weaker teams in a separate circuit.

It is believed that the members of the Softball Commission are unanimously in favor of such a plan in the interest of better games and to eliminate the top-sided scores that have characterized the early season play. Six of the ten games already played have been won by such one-sided margins as to make the contests uninteresting to all concerned.

Because of such short notice, the commission announces that league games at present booked for next week will be played according to schedule and that if it is deemed advisable to segregate the contending teams into two leagues, the change will be placed into effect on the week following to allow an opportunity in the meantime to draw up new schedules for both leagues.

The Carroll-Binder Co. softball team maintained its undefeated status in the Softball League by walloping the Company L nine, 22 to 4 in a contest limited to six and a half innings Friday night at Cox Athletic Field.

Geyers, Lang Chevrolet Co. and the Carroll-Binder Co., each with two straight victories, are now the only unbeaten teams in the ten-team league.

The National Guard team held a lead of 2 to 1 at the close of the second inning but this advantage wilted away quickly when Carroll-Binder opened up an attack that produced six runs in the third round. Having acquired the scoring habit, Carroll-Binder scored five more runs in each of the fourth, fifth and sixth stanzas, turning the game into another rout.

Lloyd Downey, Carroll-Binder pitcher, limited Company L to eight hits while his team pounded Lieut. Perry Swindler, Company L hurler, for twenty-two bingles.

Every member of the winning team took part in the slugfest. Randall, catcher, and Cope, shortstop, leading the offensive with four hits apiece, Peters and Monroe connected for home runs. Yowell, Swindler and Kurtz each obtained a pair of blows for Company L. Lineups:

MILLENNIUM NEARS; CEDARVILLE BEATS WILMINGTON NINE

Yellow Jackets Win First Victory In Many Years

Cedarville College was celebrating Saturday the first baseball victory the school has scored at the expense of its ancient athletic rival Wilmington College in the last twelve years of competition.

The Yellow Jackets vanquished the Quaker nine in a slugfest by a margin of 18 to 16 in a return game Friday afternoon on the Wilmington diamond, thereby making amends for an 8 to 3 setback administered by Wilmington earlier in the season.

Both teams were in a hitting mood and between them collected forty-four hits, of which Cedarville obtained twenty-three and Wilmington garnered twenty-one.

Garlough started on the mound for Cedarville but hit freely and was succeeded in the fifth inning by Albert Turner who held the Quakers fairly well in check. Carey Wilmington hurler, was also hit particularly hard.

Five home runs featured the melee and all of the circuit swats were made by Wilmington players. Pitcher Carey hit for all the bases twice as did Ross, shortstop, while Blackburn, second baseman, also connected for a homer. Kenfield, first baseman for Wilmington, had four singles to his credit.

Every member of the Cedarville nine hit safely at least once. Rife, shortstop, making four hits, Wilmington played raggedly in the field, being guilty of six miscues, while Cedarville's fielding misplays numbered only three. Lineups and summary:

N. Y. STOCK NOON TREND

NEW YORK, May 10.—A split rise in the public utility stocks and favored industrials at the beginning of the short week end session diverted speculative interest for the time being from the irregular markets of the last few days. Wall Street had the impression that the shorts were being given another "squeeze" in the stocks in which short selling had been quite liberal in the last two weeks.

The bulls were encouraged by the favorable tone of the week end business reviews and by the increase in weekly bank clearings for the first time in two months. Clearing increased 4.9 per cent over the same week last year and 7.3 per cent over last week.

Electric Power and Light led the rally in the utilities and sold up nearly 5 points at 90 1/2. Consolidated Gas moved up 1 1/2 to 128. United Corp. United Gas Improvement, American Waterworks and other well known utilities rose 1 to 3 points.

United States Steel pushed ahead 2 1/4 to 172 1/8, up nearly 7 points from the low of the week. The stock was well bought in anticipation of a favorable forward tonnage report to be issued at noon. Westinghouse jumped 3 points to 177 1/2 and General Electric was boosted 2 1/2 to 81 1/2 on a persistent buying wave. Radio sold up 4 points at 50 3/8.

Charging that several vessels steamed away from the blazing freighter Thames, razed by fire after an explosion off Stamford, Conn., leaving 16 men to perish in Long Island Sound, Captain George Wilson (above), skipper of an oyster boat, relates the story of the disaster. Wilson, who rescued one of the survivors, declares he saw five men die.

HIGH HAT A RADIO ROMANCE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY Author of "THE FLAT TIRE"

CHAPTER LIV

Morning followed an almost sleepless night with Elanda.

Dixie was sitting on the floor piling the baby's blocks up for her when Elanda arose. Elanda stopped short as though the sight were unusual. It seemed strange to see Dixie down playing with the baby when she planned to do such an atrocious thing the next day.

Dixie looked up and waved her hand. Elanda saw that Dixie looked pale and tired and assumed that anyone would look like that if she had a conscience.

"What time will you return from the studio tonight Elanda?" Dixie asked her. "Bang wants me to go with him to see the new picture at the Revue."

Elanda's heart leaped. "Oh, I can be back by eight-thirty. I'd love to take care of the baby. I'm terribly tired—I don't know what's the matter with me. I was coming home to go to sleep early anyway. It won't be a bit of trouble."

Elanda's heart leaped. She couldn't believe Dixie had made it all so easy for her. She must go up to the corner and call Suwanee as soon as she could and tell him to have everything ready to take care of Elanda.

The baby wrinkled her little nose gleefully and grinned at Elanda when Dixie suddenly swept the blocks and they came tumbling down.

"Aunt Andy play wit' baby?" Elanda sat down and took an dree into her arms. She gave her such a tight squeeze that the baby looked at her surprised. Then she kissed her tenderly.

"Aunt Andy's baby is the sweetest lover in the world. That's what he is."

"Feet—baby feet," Andree chirped. "Very, very feet—feet than all the candy in the world," Elanda held her close.

Dixie got up. "I kept your breakfast warm for you, Andy," she started into the kitchen. "Play with baby till I bring out to you."

Elanda felt like crying. There was something in Dixie's manner that seemed infinitely sad and not at all reckless. Elanda was happy. Perhaps Dixie was repenting. She seemed so quiet and more subdued than Elanda ever had seen her.

Elanda decided to try to be natural all day. But that was going to be a hard job. Dixie put up the bridge table and placed the breakfast on it. There was the baby's morning orange juice, too. Dixie called to Andree:

"Baby going to have a tea party with Aunt Andy. A great big tea party."

Andree jumped gleefully. It was so much like the old sweet times that when Elanda picked the baby up and sat her in her big chair at the bridge table she fought to keep back the tears.

"Aren't you going to have tea, too, Dixie?" Elanda asked.

"No," Dixie pressed her hand to her temples. "I don't feel so well today. I think I ate something that didn't agree with me. I'll fast for awhile. You don't look very keen yourself."

"I felt terrible last evening," Elanda kept her eyes on her plate. "I had a frightful fit of blues. But I'm better now. If we spend a quiet day it will help both of us. I'm going to lie on the bed and read most of the day."

"I guess I'd better do that, too," Dixie agreed. "It's probably partly the reaction of the cool weather coming after such stifling weather. I always get blue in the fall."

It didn't sound like such good conversation to Dixie, but at least it helped to break the strain and make the apartment seem less like a morgue.

Elanda, with a pretense of going to the corner for a paper, slipped out a thin trap and went out to call Suwanee when she had her breakfast. She told him to expect her with the baby some time after nine.

In the evening Elanda dressed in a bright rose evening gown because she was so pale. She had to wear something that would give her color. She would have given anything to have found an excuse for not going to the studio.

Fiske, however, had been so kind to her she felt she could not let him down. She was the famous La Paloma now and millions would be tuning in on their radios, waiting to hear her.

The corridor on the studio floor was lined with people who desired to get in to hear the program. Elanda did not know they had come to see her. Suwanee was waiting when she went inside. He met her with a smile.

"Courage, my dear! You don't look at all as if anything were the matter. Mr. Fiske requested me to ask you if you'd mind going out and making an appearance in the corridor so some of these ardent admirers of yours can see you. He also wants me to go. The announcer will take us out and introduce us. They can let only a few of the chosen in."

There was a hearty cheer when first Elanda was introduced, then Suwanee. They took their bows together—and Elanda's heart pounded until it seemed it would come up into her throat and choke her.

A silly little flapper called loudly: "You're better lookin' than your pictures, Mister Collier!"

There was a loud laugh—then a young man added: "So's Miss La Paluzza."

Suwanee grinned when she and Suwanee went back into the studio.

"There, my dear, you see in that mixed and noisy crowd the great hot polli that butters our bread. I love 'em. They take the trouble to come up to tell you they like you—and write letters, anyway."

In response to dozens of requests, Elanda again sang Suwanee's song. She turned and smiled at him before beginning this time. It was a feeble little smile, for her heart was very heavy. Suwanee nevertheless cherished it. It held comradeship and trust.

He decided during the program that it would be best if he went down with Elanda and waited outside the apartment until she delivered the baby to him. There was no use in her making the trip. Andree would be perfectly happy to go by-hive with him.

Elanda let herself in with a hammering heart. Bang and Dixie were ready to go. They kissed the baby who was in her little pajamas and told her good night.

They had no more than gone out the door when Elanda started hunting for her clothes feverishly.

"Aunt Andy is going to dress baby all up and she is going by-hive with her Uncle Fawnee."

Andree laughed gleefully and jumped for joy.

The Theater

A Xenia woman told the writer the other day that she has no sympathy for the talkies because their coming has jeopardized the legitimate stage.

This exhibits a sympathetic regard for the speaking stage not generally shared, as evidenced by the increased popularity and patronage of the talkies in comparison to a decline in patronage of the legitimate theaters, here in the hinterland at least.

This woman's feeling is natural for an admirer of the legitimate, because the talkies are generally blamed for the failure of road companies with the result that many of the best productions are not making the smaller cities now. But whether there is actual menace to the stage in the advance

Robert Sherwood, the critic, writing in McCall's finds the talkies lacking and believes the musical films something worse than terrible. And so ad infinitum.

Twenty Years '10- Ago -'30

Mr. Walter Coleman, who recently completed a business course at Ohio Northern, has accepted a position at the Citizens National Bank for the summer.

When Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived at the new palace at Potsdam, Germany, the Kaiser cordially greeted the former president and his wife. Later they had luncheon together.

Five of the nine members of the graduating class delivered their graduation addresses in the Second U. P. Church at the opening of the 116th commencement of the Xenia Theological Seminary.

Bebe Daniels and her fiance of a year, Ben Lyon (above), plan to be married on June 14. They have decided that they really do want to get married—something they promised each other to make sure of when they became engaged.

of the talkies, remains to be seen. The talkies have given many people amusement at a popular price and have enabled them to see and hear stage stars converted to the movies whom they would otherwise have no opportunity of enjoying. In the meantime New York producers are carrying on as if the talkies did not exist, shows are being produced as usual, the theaters are being used and attended and, during the past season, one of the finest plays ever written for the American stage, "The Green Pastures," has been written and produced.

Madame Franka Gordon, the Polish singer and teacher in the Institut International de Musique at Cannes, France, of which Paderewski is president, says the talkies are only canned goods at best and that there will always be a big market for the real thing.

And Madame Gordon is the world's first professor for the placing of voices in the talking and singing films. She believes there is an immense future in the talkies and thinks singing films will do much toward the popularization of music. They will never, however, in her belief, replace the theater. "But there is still very much to be done toward perfecting the singing films," she says. "So far, very few artists have seriously occupied themselves with the training of

MONTHLY RED CROSS ACTIVITIES SHOWN BY SECRETARY HERE

Total expenditures for the American Red Cross, Greene County Chapter, for the month of April, amounted to $302.50 according to a report given members of the board by Miss Emma Lyon, executive secretary, at the regular meeting Thursday afternoon.

The report follows: office interviews with applicants in person, sixty-five; by phone, three; consultations in person, forty-two; by phone, fifty-five; calls made by applicants in person, twenty-six; by phone, eighteen; in behalf of applicants in person, forty-six and by phone, fifty; letters received, fifty-three; sent out, sixty-eight; relief work in families, fifty-eight and cooperating agencies, twenty-one.

Soldier cases brought forward during the month, eleven; civilian cases, seventy-two; new and reopened soldier cases, three; civilian, four; soldier cases closed, four; civilian cases closed, two; soldier cases open at end of month, fourteen; civilian, seventy-two; soldier cases acted on during month, fifteen; civilian cases acted on during month, fifty-eight.

The organization assisted two ex-servicemen in obtaining a loan on their Federal Adjusted Compensation; it also served in two families with children in the county, where the wage earner was out of work; thirty families were supplied with clothes from the supply closet; new shoes were purchased for two school children; food was supplied in seven families where men were out of work and were unable to provide for their families, also three families were given food where there was illness; five widows were supplied with food for their families; milk was sent every day to a tubercular patient and also to a large family of children; meals were provided for five men, three transients were provided with clothing from the supply closet.

One destitute woman was given a night's lodging and meals by the organization and also one ex-serviceman was given transportation to Dayton because of illness; the executive secretary made arrangements for one disabled soldier to enter the National Military Home at Dayton. Glasses were purchased for the daughter of one county client by the organization; two tonsillitides were performed by Drs. Madden and Shields for the organization on the children of one city client; a layette was provided in two cases by the organization; the secretary assisted one woman in filing application for appointment of guardian for one minor child; also assisted a Spanish American War veteran in filing a claim to the County Soldiers Relief fund and a Civil War veteran's widow was advised about her status in filing claim for an additional increase in pension.

Three social investigations were made by the organization in behalf of the City of Xenia. The organization appreciated the cooperation of the following outside agencies in its work during the past month: The U. S. Veterans Bureau, Washington, D. C. and Cincinnati offices; The Cleveland Associated Charities and The Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society.

The organization also appreciated the cooperation of the following local agencies in the work during the month: Miss Emma Ebricht, Miss Dorothy Johnston, Mrs. William Boyles, The Skidoo Restaurant, First M. E. Church, Mrs. Horace Zell, Mrs. Florence McKeever, Mrs. Paul D. Espey, Mrs. W. H. Tifford, Mrs. Karl Babb, Mrs. Hannah McClellan, Mrs. James Wilson III, Mrs. Charles Bone, Mrs. Pannle Moore, Mrs. Louis Drake, Mrs. F. B. Arnold, Mrs. Elizabeth Hanley, Mrs. Arthur Hornick, Mrs. Frank Hastings, Mrs. J. J. Stout and Mrs. Ritenour.

SEND FRIENDSHIP TREASURE CHESTS TO PHILIPPINES

An encouraging start has been made in enlisting Greene County Churches to send "Friendship Treasure Chests" to the children of the Philippines this summer as part of a nationwide goodwill demonstration, according to Mrs. J. J. Stout, county chairman. Sales of chests to date in the county total twenty-six.

Mrs. Stout is directing the project in this county in behalf of the Woman's Committee of the Ohio Council of Churches, which sponsors it in Ohio.

Co-operating churches, organizations and individuals in this county to date, with the number of chests each has purchased include the following:

Second United Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Charles Kyle, two; First Presbyterian Church, Miss Ruth Alexander, eleven; A. C. Turrell W. C. T. U., Miss Margaret Moorehead, one; Xenia W. C. T. U., Mrs. John Ary, one; First Reformed Church, Mrs. M. L. Wolf, six; Trinity M. E. Church, Mrs. George Street, one; Cedarville Presbyterian Church, Miss Frances McChesney, one; Jamestown, Mrs. Cora Linton, one; First M. E. Church, Xenia, Mrs. C. L. Babb, one.

It is expected that many additional chests will be purchased and packed for shipment to the Philippines, as the project will continue until midsummer.

Orders for the chests are being taken by the county chairman. Each purchaser of a chest packs it with books and other gifts and sends a letter of greeting to the Filipino recipient. The United States government is providing free transportation on army transports from New York to the Philippines for chests which are shipped to New York in lots of ten or more, and in the Philippines the chests will be distributed through the public schools.

GANDHI JAILED IN YERODA

Xenian Photographs India Prison On Visit There In 1924.

YERODA JAIL

A SUN-BAKED jail set down under the hot India sun was the temporary home of Mr. Mahatma Gandhi, leader of the independence movement in India, following his recent arrest by the British.

The above picture of the Yeroda jail, where Gandhi was taken following his arrest, was taken by Miss Mary Wilgus, E. Main St., when she visited India in 1924. Gandhi has since been transferred to another jail.

His arrest followed his campaign for independence which began with his violation of the British salt laws, which forbid the native manufacture of salt either for their own consumption or for sale. It has been followed by uprisings among his followers, resulting in rioting and bloodshed that has served to call the attention of the world to the political situation in this far-off country.

Into this sun-scorched section of southern Asia Miss Wilgus travelled on a world tour in 1924 and she photographed the Yeroda jail in

FOR THE LOVE OF "MIKE"

Xenia Girl In Maiden Broadcast Finds Occasion Most Disconcerting

(Miss Lucille Denham, 8 Spring St., Xenia, made her debut over the radio in a program broadcast from Station WMAN, Columbus, Wednesday night. She has written interestingly of her experiences in the following story):

By LUCILLE V. DENHAM

We are a nation of memorial builders. We erect statues to statesmen, tombs to unknown soldiers, more statues to pioneer mothers, obelisks to great cities. Let us, while we are in this memorial mood, erect a fine stone to the bravest and most deserving of all these; to anyone who can face a "mike" for the first time with calm knees, regular respiration and a steady voice. He is truly great.

One cannot know, without first experiencing, that absolutely "gone" feeling that comes over you when the announcer concludes his introductory speech and gives you the signal to do your stuff.

Such was my feeling Wednesday evening when Dorothy Carter and I, booked as "Dot and Dash," went on the air over WMAN, Columbus. I confess, gentle readers, that my mind was a blank. (Not that it is an unusual state for it to be in, but at that time it was most disconcerting.) My fingers knew me not, and refused to do my bidding and I could have sworn in good faith that the "mike" was the size of a full grown steaming wheel.

I have been before hundreds of people in class plays, home talent revues, etc., and have yet to feel an attack of "stage-frights." That was because my audience was there with me. They were tangible. They were flesh and blood. I could see them. Sing TO them, not AT them. Their facial expressions made an excellent barometer, making it possible for me to tell whether it was to be "warm" or "very cool—possibly showers!"

But on the radio—you perform, not to a sea of friendly faces, but

SMALL FINDINGS REPORTED IN EXAMINATION OF COUNTY BOOKS

Greene County public officials are honest but are a little shy at times on their arithmetic according to a report of an examination of county offices for the period from June 22, 1926 to May, 1929, submitted by Cleona Seales, state examiner.

Clerical errors for the most part are responsible for findings totaling $1,146.56, practically all of which have been paid and adjusted. All of the findings are for small sums and are attributed to technical "mistakes of the head and not of the heart."

The report is considered particularly complimentary and all of the offices came in for commendation, the examiner declaring the laws pertaining to the various offices have been properly administered, records and files are neatly and accurately kept and public funds and fees correctly accounted for.

Miss Helen Dadds, county treasurer, is praised for the fact that the small amount of delinquent taxes in this county indicates the treasurer and her deputies have been making diligent efforts to collect taxes when they become due. The examiner also declared in the report that former County Auditor R. O. Wead and his efficient deputies are entitled to the highest commendation for the manner in which they have conducted the office, adding that the same goes for other officials.

Few errors were discovered uncorrected, the examiner said in approximately 8,000 bills made out during the period covered by the examination. Errors totaled only $197.44 and only six have not since been adjusted. A great majority were adjusted either before or cution of the oil scandals cases over a period of six years did much to remove the sting of it.

EXPECT SENATE WILL RATIFY ROBERTS FOR U. S. SUPREME COURT

It was left for Senator Morris Sheppard (D) of Texas, co-author of the eighteenth amendment, to dig up the newspaper accounts of Roberts' remarks on the eighteenth amendment. At first he announced he would oppose Roberts' confirmation because of it, but later stated that he would "reserve judgment."

The latest announcement came after the Texas dry leader had consulted with some of his dry colleagues and found them indisposed to go along in any fight.

Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, when he heard of the situation, telephoned to Roberts at his home in Philadelphia. The oil prosecutor said he wasn't speaking about prohibition, but about the wisdom of incorporating such an amendment as the eighteenth in the constitution from a purely legislative standpoint.

Senator Simmons (D) of North Carolina, who is bitter over the Parker defeat, and who is facing a hard fight for re-election this year because of his bolt of Smith in '28, was quick to join Sheppard in the incipient opposition to Roberts.

On and off the floor, Simmons has blamed "the wets" for inciting the opposition to Parker. He accused the wets of "stirring up the Negroes" in the Parker fight. It was the Negro opposition to Parker that ultimately turned the scales against him.

However, the prospects of starting a successful fight against Roberts on the prohibition issue appeared hopeless today even to the most radical of the prohibitionists. Such outstanding dyes as Fess (R) of Ohio, Allen (R) of Kansas, and their colleagues will have none of it. The senate is overwhelmingly dry, but it has not yet reached the point where it is willing to apply the dry yardstick to every question.

The actual extent of the opposition to Roberts, however, cannot be gauged until next week when the senate judiciary committee meets to consider it. This meeting will be on Monday, and unless something unforeseen develops over the week-end a quick and favorable report is in prospect.

BOWERSVILLE HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES THIRTEEN SENIORS

Baccalaureate services for the graduating class of Jefferson Twp. High School will be held in the school auditorium, Sunday evening, May 11, at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. G. T. Bateman of the Bowersville Church of Christ will preach the sermon and other ministers and churches of the village will co-operate in the service.

Music will be furnished by the high school chorus. Commencement exercises will be held Tuesday evening, May 13, at 8 o'clock. Prof. Frank D. Slutz of Dayton will deliver the class address and eight members of the class will have parts on the program.

A class of thirteen girls and five boys will be graduated. They are: Paul Binegar, Inez Brown, Letha Burr, Rose Charles, Catherine Cline, Opal Earley, Helen Fawley, Northa Fudge, Don Guthrie, Mabel Harmons, Charles Jones, Wilma Landaker, Mildred Lewis, Dorothy O'Bryant, Louise Sheridan, Robert Smith, Vanda Wilson and George Zimmerman.

Music will be furnished by the Bowersville Orchestra. The last day of school will be Friday, May 16, and the program will center around the idea of "health." The various rooms will exhibit health posters and a pageant, "The March of the Nations," will be given by the entire school.

Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, county health nurse, will speak concerning her recent inspection of the school children.

The usual basket dinner will be served at noon, and all patrons and friends of the school are expected to be present.

In the afternoon eighth grade graduates will be presented with the certificates of promotion to senior high school, and the program of the day will conclude with athletic events on the campus, including a baseball game between the Jefferson High School and some visiting team.

SENIORS LEAVE FOR LAKESIDE TO ENJOY ANNUAL CLASS TRIP

Forty-five members of the senior class of Xenia Central High School, chaperoned by four men teachers and two mothers of seniors left Friday night and Saturday morning by motor for Lakeside, O., summer resort on Lake Erie, to spend the week-end, returning home Sunday afternoon.

The senior class decided upon the trip to Lakeside instead of paying its customary annual visit to Columbus to inspect state institutions and the capitol building. The recent Ohio Penitentiary fire was responsible for the decision to dispense with the Columbus trip.

While at Lakeside the seniors expect to visit Perry's tomb, take a side trip to Put-In-Bay. The students and teachers will be quartered in cottages over night Saturday.

Mrs. George Baldwin and Mrs. White, mothers of two seniors accompanied the students as chaperones for the girls, while Principal F. E. Woodruff, Coach Walter Wilson, Clyde Shumaker and S. E. Evjen, teachers, had charge of the boys.

Members of the senior committee in charge of arrangements for the trip included Virginia Guyton, John Hurley, John Collins and several others.

PAIR PLEAD GUILTY TO LARCENY CHARGE IN COURT SATURDAY

Under indictment for highway robbery in connection with a hijacking episode on the Springfield Pike December 6, 1928 in which James Masterpolis, Springfield, was assaulted and robbed of $530 in cash and a $450 diamond ring, Roy and Kenneth Elicker, Dayton, brothers, were permitted to enter pleas of guilty to grand larceny when arraigned in Common Pleas Court Saturday morning.

Sentence was deferred in both cases by Judge R. L. Gowdy, pending a hearing at which testimony will be heard by the court to guide him in passing sentence on the two men, who were recently returned to Xenia from Iowa City, Ia.

James Burden, indicted for theft of an auto valued at $200 from Charles King and also named with William E. Terrell in a joint indictment charging them with stealing an auto belonging to Carl Anderson, entered a not guilty plea and his trial has been assigned for May 23. Terrell also appeared in court but did not enter a plea, requesting appointment of counsel.

George C. Coleman, colored, indicted for driving an auto belonging to Wade Allen without the owner's consent, pleaded not guilty and requested the court to appoint counsel to defend him.

The court will also appoint counsel for Henry Crawford, colored, and Nathaniel Bayless, both of whom appeared in court but did not plead to indictments of receiving stolen property and passing a worthless check, respectively.

STUDENTS LEAVE TO RECEIVE REWARDS

Three Xenia Central High School students went to Columbus Saturday morning to receive awards in recognition of their outstanding accomplishments in the recent district scholarship contest held at Miami University. The awards were to be presented at 10 a. m. at the state capitol.

Students who made the trip were Marlon Cox, who took first place in English I; John Maxwell, who placed third in plane geometry in the district competition; and James Wolf, who made the trip in place of Ralph Bickling. Bickling took first place in American history. Wolf, although he won first place in Latin I, does not receive an award, school officials said.

The three students were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Paul Cox, mother of Marlon Cox.

JONES SAYS:

Remember Mother on Mother's Day. Your mother will appreciate a box of pure fresh candies for two reasons—because of the sentiment attached to your gift and because the candy is so delicious.

We have a good box of mixed chocolates that retail for 59c a pound. Then we have box candy at $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 and $3.00 a box.
McDonald's Paris Exposition Assorted Chocolates retail for $1.50 a pound box or $3.00 for a 2 lb. box.
